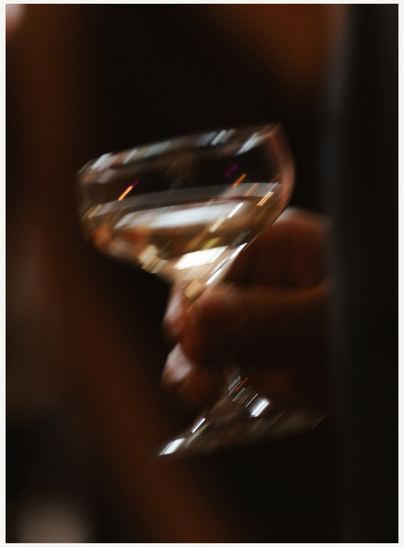
INVESTMENT GUIDE

Welcome

Your wedding day deserves to be photographed in a way that feels honest and beautiful. I work with a mix of digital and 35mm film, a quiet documentary presence, and portraits that have a loose editorial feel without ever becoming stiff or overly posed. My focus is always on the real moments, the small details, and the connection between the two of you.

I photograph outdoor and urban celebrations of all sizes throughout Ottawa and the Wakefield region, from intimate gatherings to large, lively weddings with full wedding parties and packed dance floors. If you're planning something personal, meaningful, or surrounded by nature, I would love to be there with you.

This guide is a look at a range of typical wedding day coverage that works for most celebrations. If you're unsure what might suit your day best, I'm happy to help guide you to the right coverage for your plans!



All standard collections include:

Digital and 35mm film photography
A curated online gallery with high-resolution images
Unlimited printing rights
A 30-day turnaround for your full gallery
Timeline support whenever you need it

Access to my client-exclusive planning guide to help you prepare for a relaxed and easy wedding day

Collection 01

Full day coverage for couples who don't want to watch the clock. This collection includes ten hours of wedding day photography and an engagement session, so your day has room to breathe from start to finish. A second photographer is available as an add-on if broader coverage feels right for your day.

What's included:

Ten hours of wedding day coverage

Digital & film photography on your wedding day

An engagement shoot to begin the process together

Second photographer available as an add-on

$7,800

Collection 02

Everything you need for a beautifully documented wedding day, plus an engagement session to start the process together. This collection works beautifully for most celebrations, with the flexibility to add on a second photographer if your day calls for it.

What's included:

Eight hours of wedding day coverage

Digital & film photography on your wedding day

An engagement shoot to begin the process together

Second photographer available as an add-on

$6,200

Collection 03

A straightforward option for couples who want coverage of their wedding day without any extras. This collection gives you everything you need to have your celebration documented from start to finish, with the option to build on it if your plans develop and evolve.

What's included:

Eight hours of wedding day coverage

Digital & film photography on your wedding day

Add-ons such as an engagement shoot, second shooter or additional hours available based on your needs

$5,500

Partial Day Coverage

Ideal for smaller celebrations, intimate venues, or couples who don't require a full day of coverage. This collection focuses on the moments that matter most, with core coverage of your ceremony and reception, and plenty of room to build from there as your plans evolve.

What's included:

Six hours of wedding day coverage

Digital & film photography on your wedding day

An engagement shoot is available as an add-on $4,800

Add-Ons

Second Shooter for Eight Hours	$800
Second Shooter for Ten Hours	$1,000
Additional Hours	$800/hr
Engagement Shoot	$700
Additional Roll of Film	$200
Rehearsal Dinner	$1,500

Wedding Weekends

Some celebrations can't be contained to a single day. Whether you're planning a multi-day cultural celebration, a long weekend at a cottage, or an intimate resort gathering with family travelling from near and far, this coverage is designed to document the full arc of your celebration from beginning to end.

Wedding weekend coverage begins at $10,000 for two days of photography. Reach out to discuss what your weekend looks like and I'll put together something tailored to your plans.

Elopements

A tailored option for couples planning something intimate and unhurried. Whether you're eloping, exchanging vows at city hall, or celebrating with a small group of your favourite people, this collection covers what matters most. Digital coverage is included and 35mm film is available as an add-on.

Hourly coverage is typically available Monday through Thursday, though exceptions do apply and I'm always happy to chat if your date falls outside of that.

Two Hours of Wedding Day Coverage
$2,300

Additional Hours
$800 per hour

Second Shooters

What are the benefits of a second shooter, do we need one?

A second photographer can be a wonderful addition to your wedding day. Having a second set of eyes means more angles during your ceremony, a chance to capture both of your reactions to the big moments as they happen, and a larger overall gallery with more variety. There's also a practical peace of mind that comes with having a trusted backup already on site in the unlikely event of an emergency.

Where a second photographer tends to make the biggest difference is during getting ready and cocktail hour.

If you and your partner are getting ready more than five minutes apart and both want getting ready coverage, a second shooter is something I'd recommend. It keeps the morning relaxed and means that part of your day doesn't eat into your timeline.

During cocktail hour, a second photographer can be especially valuable if you're not doing a first look, since the bulk of your family formals, wedding party photos, and portraits will likely happen during that window. It can be really nice having someone stay back to document what you're missing while you're away for photos.

You may come across photographers who consider a second shooter essential on every wedding day. That's not my view. The majority of weddings I photograph are solo and I'm very comfortable working that way. Some photographers aren't as comfortable shooting solo, and that's completely valid, but it does mean you'll sometimes see second shooters positioned as a necessity rather than an option. In my experience, a second photographer is a wonderful addition when the budget allows, but it is not a requirement for beautiful, complete wedding coverage.

Commonly Asked Questions

Is film photography included in your collections?

All standard collections (6 hours or more) include 1–2 rolls of film photographed throughout your wedding day. If film is especially important to you and you'd like more of it woven into your coverage, additional rolls can be added for $200 per roll.

How many images will we receive?

Eight hour weddings typically include between 500 and 800+ edited images, depending on how the day unfolds. Additional hours or a second photographer will result in a larger gallery.

How long does delivery take?

Your full gallery will be delivered within 30 days of your wedding day.

How are our photos delivered?

Your images will be delivered through an online gallery where you can view, download, and share your photos with friends and family. Professional print ordering is also available directly through the gallery.

Will you be the one photographing our wedding?

Yes, always! This is such a good thing to confirm with any photographer you're considering. Some photographers present themselves as sole proprietors but will send a different photographer on your wedding day without making that clear upfront. When you book me, I'm the one there with you from start to finish.

The Next Steps

01 Reach out to confirm your interest and the coverage that feels right for you

02 If you'd like to chat before booking, schedule a consultation call where you can get to know me and ask questions

03 Sign your contract

04 Pay your $2,000 retainer to reserve your date

05 You officially have yourself a wedding photographer!

06 Receive and read through my photography guide to kick start your planning process

Fine Print

The prices listed in this guide do not include tax.

150km of total travel from Wakefield, Quebec is included with all wedding collections. Additional travel is charged at $2.00/km thereafter.

Custom travel fees apply for locations farther than one and a half hours from Wakefield.

All finished photos are always provided as unmarked high resolution digital files that you may print at any size using any vendor you desire.

This price list is adjusted periodically. Bookings will be charged at the prices in effect at the time when the booking is placed.

Wedding day coverage is consecutive, meaning coverage begins at the agreed-upon start time and continues uninterrupted for the number of hours included in your collection. Coverage cannot be split into separate portions of the day.

I'm so glad you're considering me for your wedding day!

I hope to hear from you soon.

Anita